STARS AND STRIPES ABSENT. Notan American Merchant Vessel Passed Through Suez Canal in 1894

WASHINGTON, March 6 But five American vessels passed through the Sucz canal during 1894, and those were war vessels or yachts "Not one merchant ship flying the American flug has entered the canal for a year, although many dargoes designated for American passed through in British ships." This statement was made by Cousul General Ponfield, at Cairo, Egypt, in his report just received at the Department of State.

State.

The report shows that during the year 1,352 weekls passed through the canal, an increase of ten over the preceding year. The net tomage was 8,033,105 tolls paid $14,770,081. The application of the electric light to marine purposes, the report saye, is now so ganeral that nearly nincty-five percent of the vessels using the canal last year were enabled to do so at night.

ABRIPT CONAN DOYLE

The English Novellets Queer Antics In a Massachus tts Town.

Dr Doyle the story runs was engaged to lecture in Morristown under the respices of St Burtholomews school and the 25 boys of the school were in quiver of excitoment at the prespect of seeing and meeting the creator of Sher lock Holmes The head master, the Rev F E Edwards with the most hospitable intentions, invited Dr. Dovle to dinner before the lecture inviting also at the same time Mr and Mrs. Frank Stockton, great friends of the dergyman Dr Doyle declared the in ritation, to the great regret indeed of the host, the two guests and four or five mys that had been specially favored by eing asked to meet the big author At he dinner hour, however, to the orise of Mr Edwards, he received : elephone message from Dr Doyle at the station, announcing "Im here. What shall I do?

'Why we didn t expect you, but do come right over We just sat down to Swinging along the Englishman scor appeared but despite diplomatic coax ag could not be prevailed upon to enter the dining room He wouldn't, he said most any one No! Although assured that only Mr and Mrs Stockton and four boys were present that the dinner was very informal, he still remained obdurate Can't I ent my dinner alone", ba

asked bluntly

So he ate his dinner alone, devouring several plates of roast beef and frequent relays of vegetables with lightning ra-pidity. Unknown to any one in the bouse, the brawny Englishman soon fled and was next seen in the lecture hall of the school A large audience was pres ent, and every pourtesy was extended to After the lecture, with insulting haste, Dr Doyle pocketed the $800 fee and hastened to the train. The only purson, in fact, that met the distinguished British author was Mr Stockton, and as the author of "Rudder Grange" lutroduced the lecturer the latte couldn't very well avoid meeting him But the 25 boys were sadly disappointed at not shaking hands with the hero of their imaginings The whole proceeding of the talented author was, in fact, to foreign to what has been reported of him by men and papers that Morris-town's Four Hundred are wondering whether Dr Doyle could possibly have thought the town a jay place, and that he therefore dreaded meeting bucoho
